Procedure

- Begin the lesson by asking the class to touch something on their desk. Explain to students that whatever they are touching can be identified by its characteristics, or properties. A desk has the property of being smooth. A piece of candy has the property of tasting sweet. Physical properties are things that can be measured (compared to something that is always the same) or observed without changing the item into something else.
- Distribute the Vocabulary Diagram: Physical Properties activity sheet (page 126) to students. Have students complete the Vocabulary Diagram strategy (page 24) for the word properties.
